

Accessibility statement

This accessibility statement concerns the www.innovestorgroup.com website maintained by Innovestor Ltd as part of its licensed operations. The statement has been prepared on 21 December 2020. The website is subject to the Act on the Provision of Digital Services (The Act). The Act requires accessibility from public and certain private online services.

Accessibility is the practice of making a website usable by as many people as possible. An accessible service is easier to use, understand and control. The accessibility requirements are based on the Web Content Accessibility Guidelines (WCAG). The WCAG is organized under four principles, that the web services must follow. The principles are perceivable, operable, understandable and robust.

We made an internal assessment of the accessibility of the website.

Accessibility of the service

The website partially meets the requirements of the accessibility criteria required by the Act.

Content and functionalities that are not yet accessible:

The website has some non-accessible content.

- There are some shortcomings regarding Principle 1 - Perceivable. The shortcomings are related to resizing text, text spacing, and content on hover or focus.
- There are some shortcomings regarding Principle 4 – Robust. The shortcomings are related to parsing and status messages.

The requirements require that the content be sufficiently reliable to be naturally interpreted by a wide range of client programs, including assistive technologies.
